THE DEATH OF A PIONEER CITIZEN

Strathmore lost an old time resident last Sunday in the death of John Cleve, 75 years of age. Mr Cleve had been in failing health for the last few years, and about ten days before his death he had a stroke which proved too much for his strength.

Born in Chatham, Ontario, Mr Cleve operated a draying business in Strathmore after coming west 31 years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs K. Blackwell, Calgary, Mrs J. G. Robinson, Strathmore; four sons, Dick and Roy in Calgary, George at Medicine Hat, and Ross, R.C.A.M.C., Calgary, four brothers and one sister as well as four grandchildren. His wife predeceased him about 18 years ago.

Funeral services were conducted at the United Church, Wednesday, at 2 p.m., Rev. S. R. Hunt officiating. Burial was in Strathmore cemetery.

Full Bearers were Messrs. Jack Taylor, Jr., Jas. Swanson, Sandy Smith, Den Fessenden, Jas. Gunn and M. B. Garrett.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Shaver, McInnis & Holloway.

CARSELAND

by R. C.

Owing to a stormy night, the Bingo Party a week ago commanded a rather smaller crowd than was hoped for, though a very successful evening was enjoyed nevertheless. Net proceeds amounted to twenty-five dollars, all of which was turned over to the Red Cross. There were a large number of prizes, many of which were pieces of fanework donated by Miss Satchwell who has left to join the Auxiliary Service.

Standly's General Store, which has been serving the district for the past eleven years, has been sold by Mr Standly, and is now being run by Mr Worboys, assisted by Mr Robert Lennox. Mr Worboys comes from Cavendish, Alberta. The house occupied by Mr Lennox and his family, and Mrs Standly and family are in Calgary, pending further arrangements.

SCHOOL NOTES

School will close for the Christmas holiday the 23rd December and will re-open 5th January.

During the term the pupils of the School have purchased $72.50 in War Savings Stamps at the School.

For the first two weeks after the holiday the High School will have a practice teacher in the person of Miss Beale Sibolsky of the School of Education of the University of Alberta.

The Bow Valley Sub-Local of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance will hold Education Week during the last week

NEWS FROM O'SEAS

6th May 1941.

Dear Dad,

Will have to send this not by surface mail as I have not any air mail stamps and we cannot get any here. It may be some time before you receive it but as I sent a note to Madge a couple of days ago and asked her to get in touch with you immediately she received it, most of the news will be covered by her letter.

Well we have been to and left Greece and although it is quite a nice country, under the circumstances we were very pleased to get away. Where we are situated now is fairly safe but things may alter at any minute and we could quite easily be in among things at any time of the day or night. So far we have only been getting a number of air warnings each day and occasionally see enemy planes but they keep too high to bother us.

After leaving Palestine we travelled by train to Egypt and joined the Battalion. A very interesting trip through as we passed a lot of the Nile Valley and saw many thousands of acres of their irrigation scheme. All very primitive but most efficient and everywhere were very dense and healthy crops. They still use the old single furrow wood plough drawn by camel, donkey, mule or oxen and in quite a number of cases you would see a donkey and ox harnessed together or any combination of the above. Went through Alexandria which is a very large and modern city and of course

Junior Calf Club Formed

As a result of a recent meeting in Orange Valley School in the interests of a Junior calf club—

The following executive was set up following a motion to form a club and call it the Strathmore District Junior Beef Feeding Calf Club.

President, Don Sarsons; Vice-President, Manuel Schmitke; Secretary, Treasurer, Jack Groves.

Adult Committee— Art Hay, Senior supervisor; Leonard Hilton; Wm. Fawkes; D. J. McKinnon, M. L. A. and Harry Groves, Jr.

Some 24 calves are now on feed over an area from Carseland, Namaka, East, North and West of Strathmore. This feeding program will continue until about June 1st by which time the calves will be in condition for sale.

A detailed schedule for feeding may be obtained from the Department.

of January. Evening meetings will be held in Namaka, Carseland and Strathmore and perhaps in some of the one-room schools. Speakers, programmes and dates will be announced soon. It is hoped that many parents and others interested will be sure to be present at, at least one of these meetings.

at the present time a very important and busy place. If we ever get back to Egypt I would like to have a couple of days leave there as the lads who have visited it all speak very well of the place. Well, to get on with the journey, we eventually joined the Unit and next morning left camp for the boat. We did not pull out that night which gave us an opportunity to see a display of the searchlights spotting planes. They are certainly quick in locating their object and once on to it there is no chance of them getting away again. Well we pushed out and had a very calm and uneventful voyage and after a couple of days arrived in Greece. Our camp there was among olive trees, green grass under foot and beautiful shady trees above.

perfect cover from air observation and very close to Athens. We would not have minded staying there for a long period but after a couple of days were moved off again. However before moving they paid us 5000 dracs (1 pound) per man and gave a days leave to Athens. I arrived there about 11 a.m. and seeing a Cafe with a notice "English spoken" decided to go in and get some bearings. Had a couple of bottles of beer costing about 11d. per bottle. Very good beer too and much the same as our own lager but a little more bitter. Our next move was for a haircut, boot shine and hot bath. The bath cost 5d and I spent about half an hour just soaking. After this we returned to our Cafe and lunched. As meat is rationed we could not procure any and so had to try some of their vegetable dishes. Very filling but not much body. The Manager of the Cafe secured us a taxi which cost 5d each. I think, for a two hour tour of the town. We saw all the ancient ruins some of which dated back to 400 B.C. but as our driver could not speak English and persisted in telling us all about things in Greek we finished the day with a very hazy idea as to what we had seen. On our way back and after much demonstrating we managed to get him to take us to a Church and a very wonderful place it was too. The whole of the interior was beautifully decorated with most costly images and paintings, etc. As there was a service in progress we did not have the opportunity of a thorough inspection but what we did see was most impressive.

Athens is a very modern and up to date city and except for the language one could quite easily have thought you were back in Australia. The men and women were very smartly dressed and we saw many beautiful ladies but also our friend handicapped us and so we could only look and admire from a distance. Goods are very cheap but of course these items were of no interest to us except from a point of curiosity. After tea we spent an hour in a place where they had a floor show. No charge to go in but drinks cost at least double and in many instances three and four times as much as the ruling price. However they put on some very good turns and as all the ladies spoke English we could at least have a yarn to them. There were about a dozen girls to about 400

of the Army, Navy and Air Force and so our tales were very short. Had to be in camp by 10.30 p.m. and so left early. Next day we were all entrained for a destination inland which turned out to be the town of Larissa. First appearances were not encouraging at the place looked, as if it had been severely bombed and we thought we may be in for a hot time of it. It turned out that there had been an earthquake there early in March and the quake certainly made a good job of things. We spent a few days there on traffic and plouet work in which time I had my first job as traffic cop on point duty. As all the convoys were moving up to the first line of defence, traffic was very thick and we were kept fairly busy. Had several minor quakes while we were there but no damage. The locals inland are a very different type to what we had in Athens and were very poor and mainly dressed in home spins. Well we eventually received word to move and next morning found ourselves a few miles from the Greek border and were told that the German army was only about 30 miles away and our Company were to be his reception committee and would be the first he would contact upon arrival. We spent all that day digging in and were quite pleased to be active as things were bitterly cold. We were about six days in this position and mostly wet through and covered in mud all the time. To add to our discomfort it snowed for two nights and all one day and as our blankets were wet and holes full of mud the stay was not exactly a holiday. Well Jerry decided he would have a look-see the first night he came up and sent two tanks forward. We could not see them but followed their course by the din they kicked up until such time as they struck a couple of our anti tank mines then bang.

THE OUT-SIDE

● Blueprints Go White—

The engineer's prints without which Britain could not produce a single battleship, tank, or aeroplane or even the smallest nut or bolt, are changing their color. The traditional "blue print" is gradually being replaced by papers giving diagrams in black, blue or brown on white instead of white diagrams on blue.

● "Comrades of Russian Army and People"—

The British people are "comrades of the Russian army and people," declared the Archbishop of Canterbury recently, adding that "There are some feature of Communism compatible with Christianity. But that could not be said of Nazism."

● Less than two years ago a lot of people thought that air enthusiasts were crazy when they started talking about the need of an airway from Edmonton and Alaska, with fields and equipment making it possible for American planes to get through Alberta to Alaska readily in case of attack. How glad we are now to have that airline, even though it is not wholly completed.

● Charged with buying a pair of army shoes from Private Harold N. Bradford, Jack Lawler, second-hand dealer, and J. Farrar, were committed for trial at Vancouver.

● Found guilty of speeding at 38 miles an hour during Wednesday night's blackout, when the Vancouver speed limit was set from 30 to 15 miles an hour, Berchmans Velleers was fined $50.

● M. J. Coldwell, acting C.C.F. leader in the house of commons and member for Rosetown-Biggar, told a Canadian Club meeting at Victoria that "the war may last two to five years longer, but the end will be certain and sure—the complete destruction of the forces menacing civilisation."

● A "definite shortage of good oats and barley for seed for next year's crop" owing to a lighter than normal crop of these products in Alberta this year, was reported by C. Aubrey Weir, Dominion seed branch inspector in Calgary. He urged farmers who expect to need seed oats to obtain them as soon as possible.

silence and no more Jerry. The ones behind decided to go back which they promptly did. All the next day our Artillery and planes gave them a very hot reception and I understand Jerry suffered severely. One of our planes was damaged here and the pilot landed the machine just near us and came across to our lines. He told us that although they put his machine out of action he had played merry hell with

S'MORE LEGION NEW YEAR'S EVE DANCE

WORLD'S WEEK

BY HAROLD L. WEIR
Associate Editor and Daily Columnist of the Edmonton Bulletin

Japan's lightning entry into war has presented the Allies with a multitude of problems and from the short-term viewpoint it is deplorable.

From the long term point of view it may be desirable but the fact remains that such extension of war was not desired by London at any time.

From the very beginning of the war in 1939, it was felt there that war in the Pacific was to be avoided and certainly was not to be encouraged because it would deprive the British of American war materials which they needed.

It was realized by only a few people that American production would never be adequate until and unless the United States was organized on a war basis.

Now that war has come in the Pacific it is realized that there probably will be heavy and immediate diversion of supplies to America's own forces but that in the time American production will be so enormous that it will satisfy both American needs and those of Britain.

The problem is to hold the fort until the United States does organize her full resources and it is realized that every last ounce of British energy must be devoted to this task.

It is assumed that both Britain and the United States must be prepared to take some hard knocks at the beginning of this new war and to make sacrifices such as have not been made so far either in Britain or in the United States. A really complete mobilization of British manpower and womanpower will be absolutely vital and British production methods must improve, even though the United States has to send production experts to England to do it.

Germany can be expected to intensify the battle of the Atlantic and to sink American ships wholesale, particularly since she has formally declared war against the United States. Bombing raids on Britain also may be intensified.

Before this appears in type, Russia may have declared war on Japan, or vice versa. If Russia does come into the Pacific conflict, it may be assumed that she will do so reluctantly.

We can be reasonably sure that the Soviet government would prefer peace in the Pacific.

Russia wishes to concentrate all her energies on the defeat of Hitler and she needs American and British supplies with which to accomplish that purpose.

War between Japan and the United States may jeopardize and possibly reduce this all-important flow of war materials just when it is beginning to assume important proportions.

Nor is it certain that war in the Pacific—even if Russia took no part—would enable the Russians substantially to lower their vigilance along their Pacific frontiers.

So far during this Japanese-American conflict, the Soviet government has taken no action which would give the Japanese or anybody else a clue as to its policy. Even before the Japanese-American showdown, its attitude toward the Pacific dispute was one of meticulous detachment.

However, the Japanese cannot fail to be taking note of the difficulties which their Axis brethren—the Nazis—are encountering in their Russian campaign.

The new Anglo-Ethiopian treaty will demonstrate to the world how well Great Britain can do by an exercise of aggression which has been freed from the conqueror.

All indications point in the direction of a decent and realistic arrangement which will benefit Ethiopia and will be a credit to Great Britain.

Halle Selassie will definitely be restored to his throne as sovereign of most of the territories which belonged to Ethiopia before the Italian invasion in 1941. He will be provided with British or neutral advisers for the time being and he will probably have a British military police force to assist him in maintaining order during the war period. As long as the war lasts it will be necessary to maintain Allied military forces in Ethiopia.

A loan will have to be made to the Ethiopian government to allow it to build up its central and provincial administrative systems to maintain security forces and to maintain public services. It is the Emperor's desire to establish a network of schools in order to educate his people to their future responsibilities and to enable them to fulfill them. The young Ethiopians whom he had carefully trained to run the modern Ethiopia were systematically slaughtered by the Italians during the occupation.

At the time of the Italian invasion both the central government and the provincial governments were supported largely by feudal tribute in the kind provided in the first instance by the Gahars or tribute-paying peasants.

It is estimated that the Emperor's income in cash from customs and his shares in the Addis-Ababa-Djibouti railway amounted to no more than $1,000,000 or $1,500,000. Under the guidance of Everett Colson, Halle Selassie's loyal and level-headed finan-

WORLD'S GREATEST TRAVEL SYSTEM

TO THE WOMEN OF CANADA

Here is One Big War Job which You Alone Can Do

"Ceiling Prices" Must Be Maintained

This is an appeal to the women of Canada. There is one vital part of our war effort which depends on you.

Your government has placed a "ceiling" on retail prices. You are the buyers of four out of every five dollars worth of all the goods sold in this country. Your whole-hearted help is needed in this price control plan. If every woman does her part, it cannot fail.

Its success will be a big step on the road to victory. Its failure would be a serious blow to our war effort. You can tip the balance towards success.

Will you, then, undertake to make the successful control of commodity prices an established fact? We know you will. And we know that when you undertake this task it is as good as done.

This is the work you are asked to do

1. Make a list of commodities

We want you to sit down today and make a list of the things you buy from week to week and from month to month. Write down food and clothing items in particular, because these account for the biggest share of your expenditures. But we want you to list those articles you buy at the drug store, hardware store, and other stores, too.

2. Make notes about quality

Now go over your list again and mark down the necessary details about quality, type, grade and size. Then when making future purchases you will be able to compare values as well as prices.

3. Write down prices

After each item we want you to write down, if you can, the highest price charged at your store during the period September 15 to October 11, 1941. If you cannot remember the prices charged during that period, fill in your list with today's prices. Our survey shows that retailers, with few exceptions, are keeping prices well within the "ceiling" levels. As exceptions are being discovered they are being quickly brought into line.

4. Keep this list—use it when you buy!

Make up this price list neatly and accurately. You will not be able to get all the items at once. Keep adding to your list from day to day. Make it your permanent check list—your personal safeguard against any further rise in prices.

Prices May be Different in Different Stores

There has always been a difference in prices in different stores—even stores in the same locality. This may depend on the kind of service the store gives, or the way it operates. Some stores, for instance, have delivery service, give credit, or provide other extra services.

Under the new Price Ceiling Order there will still be differences in prices at different stores. The new price regulations will not do away with competition. The highest prices in any particular store must not be higher than the highest prices in force in that store during the period September 15 to October 11. They may be a little lower or a little higher than the prices in other stores.

The prices you will mark down will be the highest prices charged at the store where you shop.

A Few Points to Remember

1. The ceiling price is not necessarily the price you paid. It is the highest price at which the store sold the particular item between September 15 and October 11.

2. A merchant may reduce his prices for sales or other reasons—he may also raise them provided they do not go above the ceiling price.

3. Variations in seasonal prices on fresh fruits and vegetables are permitted. Rulings on seasonal markets will be announced from time to time by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in newspapers and over the radio.

4. Fill out your price list without bothering your merchant. In many cases he is making a financial sacrifice to sell under the price ceiling. The war has left him short-staffed and the Christmas rush is on.

Items most frequently bought

This is not intended as a complete list. It is simply offered as a guide. Add to it the other items you buy or expect to buy.

Item	Description (Size, Quality, etc.)	Store	Price	Item	Description (Size, Quality, etc.)	Store	Price
FOOD				CLOTHING	(Men's, Women's, Children's)
Milk				Coats
Butter				Sweaters

Sugar				Dresses
Tea, Coffee				Skirts, Blouses
Flour				Shirts
Cereals				Underwear
Bread				Boots and shoes
Meat				Rubbers, Goggles
Canned Goods				Stockings
OPERATING EXPENSES				Socks
Laundry and cleaning				Hats, Gloves
Soaps and other cleaning agents
Blankets, Sheets, Towels

Why you must do your part

To ensure the success of this price control plan, every woman in Canada should make a list. Retailers are showing a splendid spirit of co-operation. The great majority of them are determined to make this plan work, but if you do not co-operate the whole plan might fail—prices might start to skyrocket. So keep your list handy. Check the prices you pay against it.

If a price seems higher than the ceiling, ask your merchant about it. If further information is necessary, report the full details in writing. Address your letter to the Prices and Supply Representative, Wartime Prices and Trade Board at any of the following: Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, North Bay, London, Toronto, rockville, Montreal, Quebec City, Saint John, Halifax, Charlottetown.

WHEN little Junior comes to you,
And climbs upon your knee,
And looks right up into your eyes,
As earnest as can be;

And heart that seems to pause,

He says, "Now tell me, Daddy,

Ain't there no Santa Claus?"

Then you just start a-talking,

Be sure to make it stick,

And say, "There is a Santa Claus;

Sometimes he's called St. Nick."

And say "If there's no Santa Claus

How on earth would little boys

And lots of pretty toys?

And how would little sister

Get dolls and other things,

If it were not for Santa Claus

That Christmas always brings?

He's really with us always,

Though he's trampled in life's race;

At Christmas time he pops up,

And assumes his proper place.

You can't see dear old Santa Claus

WHAT OF THE PROPHETS?

Looking at it from here, Anne Lindbergh's, "Wave of the Future," was way off the beam. Her wave was to have come, escorted by isolationism, and heralded by peace; to institute a new order, under whose benign authority, we traded alike with Axis and British. Instead, the Wave of the Future, darkened with deceit, sneaked up on the American continent, escorted by treachery, and heralded by captured strategic fortresses and sunken battleships. As to what kind of a life

The hostess had her home prettily

WAR ON THE HOME-FRONT

(This is the first of a series of several articles dealing with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and the operation of the price ceiling law which went into effect on December 1, written for the weekly press of Canada by Bruce M. Pearce, editor of the Simcoe Reformer.)

Canada has declared war — this time on the home front!

It is war against an enemy as ruthless and implacable as Hitler.

The resulting combat will be felt against the haunting spectre of inflation.

every city, town and village in the Dominion, in every township and back concession in the most remote parts of the country.

Another army is on the march—this time an army of twelve million Canadians on the march against a foe that would wreck Canada's economy and deal her contribution to Empire defence a blow as deadly as a major defeat by the Nazis.

The War is declared, as of December 1, 1941, against spiralling prices.

tion.

Cause of the war is too much money in consumers' hands for the available supply of goods.

Weapons For New War—

Weapons in this gigantic struggle will not be guns, planes, tanks and bombs. They will consist of vigilance, self-abnegation, compromise and the Golden Rule.

We have just come from General Headquarters where we heard the General Staff map out the plan of campaign in a masterly way, a plan for which no blue-print existed, an attack over a No Man's Land hitherto untrod.

The Commanders are resolute in their determination that the plan will succeed, not just for a sortie but for attainment of the final objective. It must succeed, they aver, or we are licked in more ways than one.

Every last Canadian is being recruited for this fight-to-a-finish. There will be no uniforms, no brass band, in tinsel or glamour in this battle. Just a niche in the civilian army that is pointing to win the greatest battle on the home-front.

The enemy is no phantom, but a real and potent figure. He may be easily discerned in the rising price of nearly every commodity being sold in Canada, which, until Ottawa took a hand threatened to get completely out of control, as seen in the 16 percent increase in cost of living since the war against Hitlerism began.

The declaration of war establishes an absolute ceiling on prices of all kinds, with a very few exceptions, as they existed during the basic period, September 15th to October 11th, 1941. The exceptions are for inevitable seasonal fluctuations in the case of fruits and vegetables.

It is a battle which can be won, which must be won and which will be won if each accepts a front-line position in the fight. "The price ceiling must be maintained" is the order of the day from Headquarters. The people's army alone can assure that it will be.

their convoy while he was among it. That night and most of the next day it snowed very heavily which was very bad luck for us as visibility was practically nil which allowed Jerry to move forward and get some of his guns in range. He made a devil of a nuisance of himself with one gun and so we were sent out to get it. It was still snowing when we set out and after we had gone about a mile and were just about at the spot where we should have come out of the creek to approach his gun post, our Artillery must have seen something and so opened fire. Things were a bit too hot for us as we could only see a few yards ahead decided to return and come back later in the day. Just as we reached our position again the snow eased off and looking back we saw that there were what appeared hundreds of Germans approaching us and only a few yards from where we had turned back. We opened fire and drove them back and except for occasional shells had a fairly peaceful night. However the rest of our stay was most unpleasant and we were very pleased to leave having had our fill of bombs, shells, bullets, mud, snow and rain for one week. Ian Menzies (Kirby's know him) was taken back from this position. A shell landed in a hole and he was among the casualties, shell shock. Have not seen him since but heard that they had taken him back to Palestine. Well we had a couple more defensive positions before leaving Greece and much the same routine except we had fine weather for it. In one position I saw a great dog fight and Jerry crashed into the sea in flames.

THE "OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

(Weekly Review of National Affairs)
 By M. McDUGALL

Ottawa, December 18— With the destruction of the final barriers that kept the United States aloof from active participation in the struggle, with the death of isolationism and its dreams in the white heat of universal war and with the merging of most at least of the American hemisphere with the rest of the free world in this grim and deadly conflict, a new kind of world citizenship has been born. Everybody in this country is undoubtedly conscious of a new and keen sense of a brotherhood of arms with all nations, races and creeds which are free and are determined to defend that freedom if need be to the death. The citizenship extends to those who are under the yoke, and whose hands are therefore temporarily bound. The brotherhood is founded on the simple issue that faces each nation alike, victory or slavery. All are fighting to keep the lamp of freedom from going out all over the world. Every citizen of Canada has a moral responsibility for his actions in this crisis not only to his fellow citizens but to all members of the great brotherhood. A soldier in the armies defending Moscow or in the ranks of Chiang Kai Shek, an airman at Manila or in the Libyan desert, are all striking a blow for Canada.

It is impossible for anyone to get a clear view of the great shifting canvas of the war, but whatever the immediate future may have in store for good or ill, we Canadians and all other citizens of our commonwealth are profoundly comforted by the thought that nothing in the cause of democracy can now go by default. Even if Japan is now ranged against us, the great United States stands with us through cloud and sunshine to the end. The spread of the war is naturally having effect on Canada's war position from various angles. From a military point of view Canada now faces two dangers. The joint defence committee, we are assured, has completed its arrangements for the defence of the coasts and their plans are being put into operation. All forces of our Western command are on the alert and while measures of defence must remain a military secret, we know that there is a constant vigilant air patrol along the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard; while it is believed that complete cooperation rather than unified command is the best way to handle Western defences by the two countries, we have an agreement with our neighbors for the shifting of forces from one side of the border to the other whenever needed.

The East coast south of Labrador and the west coast south of Alaska have been given as the regions having the greatest hazard of attack by raiding aircraft. Next come Eastern Quebec and the valley of the St. Lawrence. The danger of air attack in Ontario is "slight". The primary objects of air attacks if they materialize will undoubtedly be to attempt to spread panic. As president Roosevelt said that is part of the Japanese strategy. Canadians are not likely to be thrown off our main objectives in this war even temporarily by sporadic air attacks. The air raid precaution measures throughout Canada are variable according to distance from the seaboard but in every centre newly appointed wardens have had the benefit of experiences of men who have been in Britain and have watched British measures in operation.

It is probable that the entry of the United States into war will mean that temporarily there will be some restriction in the flow of essential materials for war production across the border. That would seem unavoidable. The order from the munitions department halting the sale of rubber tires except on new machines indicates what the war in the China seas means to the importation of rubber produced in Malaya. The attacks of the Japanese on the Peninsula of Malaya has the double aim of capturing the strategic base at Singapore and taking over the rubber plantations. There may also be a reduction in the import of jute and certain vegetable oils but jute will continue to come from India. The administrators of lease lend aid to Britain have assured the British government that this will continue to flow but the tremendous speeding up of war production in the United States will necessarily cause some dislocation in exports to Canada as well as to Britain. Churchill saw the decline in the volume of Atlantic shipments as unavoidable for a time. The committee coordinating the economic efforts of Canada and the United States will however be very active. The needs of the steel industry presents perhaps, the greatest problem. It will however be a matter of high strategy of the allied nations to decide where and how the production of war industries in the various countries is to be distributed, for Britain and Russia are both fighting the battles of freedom and more than ever before it will be of the utmost importance to help the armies of the Chinese generalissimo with supplies along the Burma Road if it can be kept open.

The finance department is floating a new war loan in February for $500,000,000. It will be interesting to see whether future loans may be partially raised in U. S. money markets. Of exceptional interest will be the effect of the spread of war on the mobilization of man and woman power in this country. That is one of the greatest questions of the hour.

WORLD OF WHEAT

(By H. G. L. Strange)

Director—The Crop Testing Plan
During the Napoleonic Wars British farmers enjoyed high prices for their products and made quite a lot of money. The records reveal that in general farmers spent this money in expanding their holdings, in erecting more elaborate buildings and in living at a higher standard; many farmers even went into debt. The Scottish farmers, however, so the records tell us, spent their extra profits first in paying off their debts, then in draining and in manuring their land and particularly in improving the quality of their flocks and herds.

After the war a severe depression occurred. Large numbers of farmers appealed to Parliament for help, but the Scottish farmers asked for no help; instead they continued to make money during the depression by selling to their fellow British farmers high quality breeding stock—stock which they had quietly been building up and improving during the course of the war.

We are informed that much livestock in Europe has already been slaughtered for food; and that some of the best herds have been dispersed. There will no doubt, therefore, be a big demand from Europe for breeding stock after this present war is over. Canadian livestock farmers might now well consider what the Scottish farmers did during the Napoleonic wars, and how they weathered successfully the subsequent depression.

Roads and services introduced by the Italians must be maintained in good order and this, as the Italians themselves so aptly demonstrated will require cash.
